

PUEBLO ATHLETIC CLUB

58 Glenroyal Drive
Pueblo, Colorado 81005
(719) 561-3488

Tom Calvin
Western Regional Manager
Commercial Water Division, BioLab, Inc.
674 So. Cholla St., Gilbert, AZ 85233

Tom,

Pueblo Athletic Club was a relatively small club until 2005 when we decided to make another significant investment into the facility. After the architects were done with the plans they called for the addition of 14,000 sq ft bringing our building to a total of 39,000sq ft. The plans also called for the relocation of the outdoor pool and hot tub as well as the consolidation of the equipment rooms for these and the indoor pool. All told it was to be a 3.5 million dollar expansion of a mom & pop club.

Since we were essentially started new with the pools and we had never been happy with the liquid chlorination systems which were in place when we purchased the club in 1994 we had the opportunity to pursue new methods of water sanitation. We like to do our homework on big ticket items that affect both our members and our bottom line. We looked at all the options, and although there are initially less expensive systems out there we knew we were in it for the long haul and wanted a system that would maintain a high standard of water quality, be easy to maintain and pay for itself over time. That's when we decided on ChlorKing.

We completed the outdoor pool in July of 2005 and Tom I have to tell you it was apparent right from the start that the system produced excellent water quality. Our swim coaches raved about the clarity of the water and our members loved that there was no chlorine smell. Our maintenance staff likes it as well, no more barrels to change or chlorine burns to worry about. As far as the cost of the system, it looks like it will be a five year breakeven without calculating for chlorine price increases. Not bad given the life expectancy of the unit should continue far beyond that.

Would I recommend the system to someone looking to upgrade or install a new pool? You bet! This is one of the best features that we added to our aquatics programs and one that no one else in the area can compete with. We list it in our advertising as well.

Thanks for producing a great product with excellent after sales support!

Sincerely,
Eric Beaudry

Eric Beaudry, President